About the Elective

Finance, one among the key functions, is the lifeline of any business. A business house runs on money and managing cash flows becomes very prudent. Finance has been defined as an art and science of managing money.

Companies are relying on finance professionals more than ever to help them effectively manage cash, assets, investments, and business risk. Finance does not just involve numbers and ratios, it also involves analyzing these numbers to turn them into actionable insights. Knowing how to use quantitative data to solve business problems and help make businesses make sound decisions is a skill that will propel one's career. In an online MBA finance programs, one can learn to solve organizational problems using established theories and techniques. Though a professional qualification in finance will make one expert in technical aspects but what is required in reality is an ability to research, communicate, convince, adapt and be open to shifting one's opinions based on present facts and respond to the rapidly changing environment. Only a management course in finance can provide an apt mix of the diverse abilities required to be a successful finance professional. Studying finance opens up a lot of diverse and exciting career opportunities in corporate sector, banks, financial institutions, FinTech start-ups, brokerage houses and government agencies. Varied career options include investment banker, financial advisor, financial analyst, risk managers, M&A consultant etc. Though working in finance domain is challenging, it is very financially rewarding.
